SEATTLE.

The victims of the auto accident practically all recovered, expect Dr. Hanson, and his arm is slowly healing. The accident was caused by loosening of a bolt in the steering gear. The driver felt something wrong and attempted to stop the car, but too late.

Although it was a frat affair, practically no one was in charge, the Frats having decided to let each one go as he wished. To help out those who wanted to go, A. W. Wright secured one auto, and C. K. McConnell three. A good deal human kindness cropped up. The trip back to town with the Hansons has already been mentioned. The people at the Lake Ketchikan Hotel, where the rest of the injured were taken, refused any compensation. The driver of the wrecked car was a stranger to all. The other drivers did not offer to get him home, so the deaf fixed it so he as well as the other injured reached Seattle safely.

Lake Ketchikan is a beautiful place, a smooth body of water with mountains in rear. On account of the smoke at this time, only a hazy view of the mountains in the rear could be had. The trip on the whole was very safe, if all drivers were careful. A much safer road than the Lake Ketchikan accident, an auto with three men came down that road at a speed of fifty miles an hour, knocking two autos off the road, and seriously injuring the occupants of one. But the road hog is found everywhere.

One of the recent events here was the dedication of the new Lutheran Church, August 13th. Rev. J. Huchthausen, of Minneapolis, Minn. A number of the Lutheran Church Board was present. The program for the day was as follows:—

August 27th, September 10th and 24th.
Lord's Supper August 27th.
Bible Classes will be conducted for the members every Tuesday evening.
Lectures will be conducted for those wishing to become members Thursday afternoons and evenings. For out-of-town members wishing to join a correspondence instruction can be arranged.
The Ladies' Aid meets the first Saturday of each month, 8:00 P.M.
Regular Congregation meeting every second Sunday of the month after services.
The Clubroom is open and free to any individual. Those who wish to use hall to celebrate wedding or to make surprise parties and the like, and wish to use the dishes, will see the President of the Aid Society or the Pastor for the rate.

Yours sincerely,
REV. G. W. GAERTNER,
Phone: East 2829
1101-15th Ave.

The church, aside from the plastering, plumbing and cement work, was done entirely by the deaf, although Rev. Mr. Gaertner donned overalls and helped out. It looks very well. The upper part has the church proper, while below is a room for socials, suppers, etc., entertainments, etc. Adjoining on the south, is the two-story home of the pastor. The Lutheran Church has certainly done finely by the deaf of Seattle.

The Puget Sound Association of the Deaf decided this year to meet at the home of its President Chas. Gumaer, for its Labor Day picnic. Later the President found he would have to work at his job on the Port-Intelligence part of Labor Day, so he asked the Board of Directors to move the picnic forward one day and have it Sunday afternoon, which they consented to do. This did not prove satisfactory to many, and resulted in only a little over thirty-five being present, but those few had an enjoyable time.

Mr. Gumaer has a neat, clean, rustic bachelors abode, that will some day be a fine country home. Part of the day was spent in the old fashioned game of pitching horse shoes. In this C. K. McConnell proved to be the champion.

Labor day a number of the deaf went to Richmond Beach and had a merry time, others went to Woodland Park, while A. K. Waugh, Roy Harris, Fred Kuhn, John Adams, went fishing, and report big results.

William Henrich, of Anacortes, and Miss Anna Hampton, of Seattle, were united in marriage August 26th by Rev. Geo. Gaertner. They will reside at Anacortes.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hagadorn gave a wedding reception to their friends at the new church August 19th. Owing to a misunderstanding the attendance was not large, so every one had three or four helpings to ice cream.

At the last meeting of the P. S. A. D., President Gumaer suggested that each one begin to lay aside money to attend the State convention at Spokane next year. A good idea. I would like to see the convention take a step that would add a thousand or two to the Home Fund the next two years. This is not at all impossible with men who have push and get-there ability. After 15 years the association has only about $1,700. As to location of the Home when it is finally built, Prof. Clark of the State school was right when he said it should be in the Puget Sound region. Vancouver's prunes will hardly draw it east, neither will the anti-rheumatism west of the mountains, although I never heard that Seattle old people particularly suffered from rheumatism.

Central location is this big idea. Relations will not send their dear ones away off when they may never see them again. If they can't support them, they certainly can't pay railroad fare to a distant point. Jack Bertram, of Portland, was in town recently. He called at my office, but just missed him as I had to catch a boat.

Mrs. C. K. Connell has been visiting her daughter in Chicago, and then going to St. Paul, Minn., then to Victoria, B. C., and home. Mrs. John Bodley has returned for a visit to relatives in Yakima. Mrs. Stella Boston also visited in Yakima, and is home looking hale and happy. Wonder what is going to happen.

Sidney Ralsin took a vacation trip to Vancouver and Victoria, B. C. There are some pretty girls up there, but Mr. Ralsin is very mum about them.

Yakima certainly has some big fellows in the persons of Jerry Stewart and Ed. Milland, whom we met at Lake Ketchikan. Mr. Stewart and family came down to Seattle for a few days.

Charles Downey expects to go to Canada soon to work with his brother.

Oscar Sanders was up for Labor Day. I believe he is now at home up in Snohomish County. Rail strike has closed some mills.

The young son of Mrs. Boston, while attending the circus last month, was badly bitten and scratched by a monkey. The attention of a doctor was required.

A wedding was said to be in prospect for the last of this month. Hugo Holcomb still keeps up his Sunday afternoon church service twice a month. Hugo is showing a perseverance worthy of commendation.

Chas. Al. Gumaer wants to form a Pacific Coast Association of the Deaf. Well!

Mr. and Mrs. Key, of Yakima, were in Seattle last month.

A. W. Wright and family recently took a trip to Vancouver and other points in British Columbia. Mr. Wright says that business and work is very quiet in Vancouver while living expenses are high, while in Washington State business is good and living expenses are lowering. All of which might be a comparison between wet and dry. British Columbia is very wet, while our State is dry. Mr. Wright says British Columbia has nothing to compare with Seattle in scenery.

I recently mentioned in the JOURNAL that E. H. Whitehead was building a new house in Spokane. That was an error. Mr. Whitehead has just moved into a new home in Vancouver.

Mrs. Deligio should not slander herself. She is certainly clever, for didn't she sell a pup to Mrs. Nelson, and tell Mr. Mueller in a delicate way something he ought to know in order to get in to feminine favor.

Glad to see a new Tacoma correspondent. While it may be only a question of time when Tacoma will be annexed to Seattle, I shall always leave the south end of the city for the Tacoma writer.

Mrs. Hodge, of Missouri, who has been visiting her brother in town, has returned home.

Mrs. Oscar Larson, of Los Angeles, after visiting friends and relatives here, has returned south. The next social of the P. S. A. D. will be held at the hall September 23d. Mr. and Mrs. Bodley and Mrs. Dorferio are in charge. At the last meeting the society decided to invite Prof. Lloyd, of the State School at Vancouver, Washington, to come to Seattle and deliver an address.

Carl Garrison, Camano, has come to town and taken a position in the Root Printery.

Seh Ladd, of Oregon, is visiting his daughter in town.

Ed. Martin, Lyan Palmer and others, have gone to Wenatchee to pick apples.

The Partridge family are home from their summer residence. A number of the local ladies went out to their seaside home last month and gave Mrs. Partridge a stork shower.

The Frats initiated two new members at the last meeting.

Miss Jean Campbell and mother, of Victoria, B. C., visited relatives in Tacoma last week, and stopped over in Seattle to see friends.

A party of deaf were out at Indianola of a Sunday recently. A young man was there, apparently alone. He wanted to go in the water, but had no one to leave his wallet and camera with. Finally walking over the crowd he selected one man to whom he entrusted his valuables. But he staid in so long that the custodian of his valuables tired and turned them over to True Partridge. When the owner dressed he could not find his man. Approaching George Riley he asked in good spelling if he had seen a man with a camera. Riley pointed to Partridge. Partridge turned over the goods, and the owner pulled out the wallet contents and counted it—some forty or fifty dollars.

Sure that fellow had some faith in humanity. The deaf, having found out he could spell, became acquainted with him. He proved a likeable fellow. Took a picture of the group and sent the writer a dozen finished pictures. Returned to Seattle with the crowd and at dinner with two deaf. Claimed to be a short-story writer, who was attending school to learn speech. I sized him up as an oralist, who had been well fed on oralist matter. Tuesday Tom Partridge came to my office and informed me that our new friend had been in his office soliciting money to attend a school to learn speech. I reported the matter to the police, but being a little late in doing so, the fellow had evidently left town.

Guess we were sold that time, but why frown. It only takes thirteen muscles of the face to produce a smile, and sixty-five muscles for a frown.

Ben Wallace, of Fernie, British Columbia, has been learning the linotype and intends to go to Vancouver, and later to Seattle. His wife, who was Belle Campbell, finds Fernie rather a lonesome place.

Andy Geppner was out in his Ford auto the other night, and stepped on the gas. An officer saw him and straightaway stepped on Andy. Andy say he won't do it again.

A hallow'en party is being planned for the last of October.

Our state school opened the 13th.

From a daily paper:—

Analyzing the statistics of deaf-mutes in the country, presented by the census bulletin issued today, one is drawn inevitably to the conclusion that the higher and further one gets from the more populous sections of the United States, the less liable he is to be a deaf-mute.

Another thing that the analysis makes apparent is that deafness and deaf-mutes decrease as civilization advances. In fact, the census bulletin declares that statistics in the more advanced countries for some time have been showing a decrease in the ratio of deaf-mutes to the population, since there has been a gradual reduction and progressively more skilled treatment of certain diseases, especially those of diseases of children which frequently cause deafness.

Applying this finding, one observes that in the east North Central States of the country there are more deaf-mutes enumerated than in any other geographic division, with 502 per million persons in that section. On the other hand, in the Pacific Coast States there are only 367 deaf-mutes per million persons, while in the Mountain States the number is brought down to the lowest in the country, 363 per million persons, the Pacific Coast standing second.

Proportionately, there are more deaf-mutes in Wisconsin than in any other state, the number there being 641 per million, while Wyoming has the least, the rate there being 185 per million.

In the State of Washington there are 566 deaf-mutes, or a rate of 417 per million; in Oregon 344, or at the rate of 439 per million, and in California, 1,135, or at the rate of 331 per million.

As against 44,708 deaf-mutes found in the country by the census of 1910, 44,885 were found in 1920, although the general population had increased at a much larger rate. In other words, deafness is decreasing, for while there was one deaf-mute for every 2,060 persons in 1910, there was only one for every 2,350 of general population in 1920.

Deafness is more prevalent among males than among females, for there are in the schedules approximately six males to every five females.

DETROIT.

News items for this column, and new subscriptions to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, will be received by R. V. Jones, 2147 Lyceum Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

The inevitable has happened. All of Ford's plants are closed in Detroit forcing many auxiliary plants to close also, which leaves us "all dressed up, and no place to go."

There is no definite date set for the reopening of the Ford industries, so many have turned in their badges and tool checks and quit their jobs permanently, and are seeking work in other lines.

Walter Carl has returned from his motor trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and reports a great time, with a 1200-mile run, without any motor troubles. He is thinking seriously of joining the "own-your-home" club. Next!

Messrs. T. J. Kenney, R. V. Jones, George Davis, and Frank Dahm, have all purchased lots in Graceland Subdivision, and expect to make the carpenters hustle next spring.

Rev. Charles returned to his missionary duties September 10th, after spending his summer vacation with Flint friends, and attending the reunion of the Ohio School at Columbus.

He held both morning and afternoon services in the Chapel of St. John's Church, September 10th, taking as his subject in the morning, "Cultivating new Tastes," and in the afternoon, "Duties as Christians." After the morning services, there were five little children baptized. They were Frank Elmer Friday, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Friday; Mary Burnett Friday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Friday; Louise Adeline, and Neldabel Hazel Friday, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Friday; and Eugene Ivan Kader, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kader.

Miss Matilda Stark had the misfortune of getting her hat ruined, coming to church, on the 10th. She alighted from a street car in a heavy rain, and the wind blew her hat off, and under the wheels of a passing motor car, which crushed it all out of shape. But Matilda is certainly glad the hat was all that got crushed.

After a long and up-hill struggle against adverse circumstances, the D. A. D. has passed temporarily out of existence, with the club property put in storage.

The officers are looking for club rooms that will not make such deep inroads on the treasury, and it is to be hoped that they will succeed in finding them, for with such a large community of the deaf at Detroit holds, it seems too bad that we can not have a permanent social center.

The sons of two of Detroit's silent community are members of Detroit's Finest.

The son of Peter McNulty has been on the force for about a year, and is making good as a patrolman and traffic cop, while F. E. Ryan Jr., son of Fred E. Ryan, is a recent acquisition to the force, and his training in the Red Arrow Division, and over seas service certainly puts him in position to make an excellent officer. Officer McNulty also served in the World War, in the of the U. S. Navy.

Mrs. Elsie Hughes is very sick with the influenza, and has had to send her children to the country to stay with their aunt. It is hoped that she will soon be well again, and able to take up her duties at Ford's, when the Highland Park plant resumes.

The sister of our genial friend, Maurice Pernick, passed away Aug. 31st, at Brooklyn, N. Y. She had been ill since leaving Detroit in June. Maurice has the sincere sympathy of his many friends and acquaintances.

While conversing with the deaf on a street corner the other evening, the writer was approached by a neat appearing aged gentleman, who could only use the Canadian alphabet.

He claimed to be totally deaf and gave his name as A. C. Campbell, employed at present on the Detroit Free Press as a linotype operator. He is a born Canadian but has traveled extensively, and has been to the far-away countries of New Zealand and Australia.

He says he has met mutes in Melbourne, Australia, who were running a fruit ranch, and that he never had any chance to learn sign language, as he never stayed long enough around the deaf, and remarked that he felt stupid, when he saw so many of us talking in signs. He may learn soon, if he stays here long.

Léon French and Clarence Moore took a motor trip to Dryden, Mich., on the 9th, and went for a fishing junket at Seven Ponds, near that place. The distance was fifty-two miles from Detroit, making one hundred four miles in the round trip. They were hampered by heavy rains and engine troubles, and arrived home Sunday night, with a fisherman's appetite, and only seven bullheads to their credit. Better luck next time, boys.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Bengard, of Cleveland, are the latest addition to our Silent community. They were former pupils of the Wisconsin school, and Mr. Bengard has employment at the American Body plant. If the work proves steady, they will make their home here.

Between the morning and afternoon services on the 10th, Mrs. G. E. M. Nelson called the officers of the Mission and the Ladies' Guild, together with Rev. Charles, to meet in the Parish House. The occasion was intended as a surprise to Charles Elmer Drake, to whom Mrs. Nelson presented a handsome Bible, printed on India paper, with the following inscription on the fly leaf:—"To Charles Elmer Drake, as a token of regard and esteem, from his friend and sponsor in baptism, Gertrude E. Nelson, St. John's Chapel, April 9, 1923."

Elmer promised to make use of the book, and help in the conduct of the Sunday afternoon Bible Services.

Oleon, Mystic Marvel, is the way he is advertising himself, but his real name is Jean Wilmot, of Rochester, N. Y., and he is a deaf-mute, with a limited scope in the sign language, as he never attended a school for the deaf.

He travels all over the country selling his act as an advertisement, and is a wonderful mannikin.

He holds one pose for nearly two hours, and offers $1,000 to anyone who can make him smile, and always leaves a trail of angry women, who try to win his offer by yamping him as he stands aloof and watches them waste their smiles and coquetry. He was an assistant to Herman, the great Magician, at our time. Wilmot is a vegetarian, his meals generally includes peas and spinach to strengthen his blood, and celery to build up his nerves, then he exercises every day, takes a swim and walks three miles.

His ability to hold one pose for nearly two hours comes from careful training and preparation to make the mind control the body. For instance, he never drinks, smokes, or chews tobacco, or eats meat.

He was asked if he never saw anything humorous in life, and replied that he did, but only smiled in his heart.

He was asked if he did not feel humor when people crowded around him and tried to make him smile, and replied that he did not see them, because his mind was concentrated on his work, that his mind was stronger than his body, and when he makes up his mind not to smile, his mind would not let his features surrender to temptation.

If the writer had not seen him make up for his act, he would certainly believe with the rest of the crowd on the street, that Wilmot was only a mechanical construction, made to go by electricity.

Mr. Wilmot is at present in the employ of the Detroit Mardigras, Auto City Gardens, at Michigan and Dewey Gardens, from Sept. 16 to October 1st. He averages from $75 to $100 a week with his act. Food for thought.

Services are again conducted every Sunday at St. John's Church, Mr. McNulty has charge of the Bible lesson in the morning, at the Church Chapel, and R. V. Jones conducts the Bible services in the Chapel of the Parish House, at 3 P.M.

Mrs. C. C. Colby is improving rapidly, and is able to be out occasionally. She was at the services

Sunday afternoon, and rendered "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The subject of Mr. Jones' discourse was "Fellowship," and he was pleased to see the attendance was growing.

The winter social season is approaching, and with no Clubrooms or regular meeting places, your chances of getting news of the deaf is smaller, so those who do not take the JOURNAL, had better come forward and subscribe now, so they can sit by their own fireside, and know what their friends are doing.

R. V. JONES.

ICELAND A REMARKABLE COUNTRY

Its capital City Reykjavik, has about 18,000 population, and compares well in "up-to-date" appearances with any American city of its size. The streets are full of "Fords" (i.e., the Main streets) and of well dressed men and women. Iceland has had a prohibition law for some years, and the people in the country and city show it in their thrifty homes, well paved streets, and handsome store windows. The country has long been made rich by its codfish, of which twenty-five million dollars worth are exported every year. Spain alone has been taking five million dollars worth, and twenty million dollars worth to other European countries. The fish are split open, cleaned, salted and dried, then packed ready for export. The fish are brought from around the coast by sturdy captains and large fishing vessels. A great industry. Many other kinds of fish are caught and largely used by the inhabitants, and kept for food during the hard winters, also exported as cheaper food for other countries.

There is no illiteracy in Iceland, city and country. School children are to be seen on the streets with their books going to school.

The Icelanders are a remarkable people. A wonderful country. So far in the northern latitude, also like the Scandinavian race generally, a very moral and virtuous people and Nation. During this last year or two, Iceland has met with a great political antagonism from Spain. The Spanish Government has recently been legislating against Iceland, because they are taking too little of Spanish wines in exchange for fish. They demand Iceland to repeal her Prohibition Law, or forfeit all Spanish trade. To lose Spain's five million dollars fish trade would be a severe blow to Iceland; hence, Iceland is between two financial dilemmas. If they repeal their Prohibition Laws and throw open the gates to strong Spanish wine, they demoralize their own people, but if they do not accept Spain's cruel dictum, the financial losses will tend to ruin many of their merchants.

Also the ship masters and owners, and entail more or less poverty upon the inhabitants, who are now almost free from privation or consequent poverty.

Iceland has asked the Government of our United States to intercede with Spain to withdraw their drastic legislation against Iceland, and their unjust "Boycot." Just now this little country is endeavoring in many ways to find a new market for their codfish exports, and thus save their own people from the inevitable disastrous results that now menace their little nation. Alcoholism, "The Evil of the Ages," that our United States has nearly escaped from, after an anti-alcohol fight of nearly 150 years, should be Iceland's complete victory also.

Cruel King Alcohol is too deadly a tyrant to be allowed to destroy the noble temperance people of Iceland. The late Hon. John G. Wooley, who recently died suddenly in Granada, Spain, visited Iceland in June and July, 1922, and wrote to American temperance newspapers of the satisfactory results of his observations while becoming acquainted with this remarkable country and its admirable people, so intelligent and well educated and virtuous.

Hon Mr. Wooley, for many years editor of a widely read Chicago Temperance Journal, was once the nominee of the Prohibition Party for the Presidency of the United States.

C. H. Cooper will take Trip Around World

Charles H. Cooper, 522 Washington Street, a lifelong resident of this city, will leave on January 23, 1923, for several months' cruise around the world. Mr. Cooper is 77 years of age and deaf and dumb. He will be unaccompanied on the trip. He will visit every place of importance and several stop-overs will be made at more interesting points. The route will include Cuba, Panama, San Francisco, Hilo, Honolulu, Japan, China, Manila, Java, Burma, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Italy, France, England and then home.

Mr. Cooper will take the S.S. "Empress of France," which has a gross tonnage of 18,500, a length of 571 feet and a breadth of 75 feet, which is owned by the Canadian Pacific. It is expected that at one of the ports he will transfer to the "Empress of Scotland," an oil burner with a gross tonnage of 25,000, and a length of 677 feet. This ship is also owned by the same company and passengers have the privilege of transferring from one boat to the other. Both of the boats are ideally adapted for world travel and they have been constructed with this point in view.

Mr. Cooper has already crossed the ocean four different times and he says that he has never been sick. He always reserves an inside stateroom, due to the fact that weather conditions are not so easily felt during extreme stormy voyages.

The steamer will be taken from New York City and the first stop will be Havana, the largest city in the West Indies, and thence through the Caribbean sea to the Panama canal. Stops will be made at the tropical towns of Colon and Panama. From there the course leads to San Francisco. From the Golden Gate, the course will be to the Hawaiian Islands, then to Japan. Here several stops will be made at the principal cities.

Considerable time will be spent in India and Ceylon. The Suez canal will form the connecting route to Europe and here again all of the leading cities will be visited by Mr. Cooper.

It is expected that the return to this city will be made about the first of next June.

Mr. Cooper is very much interested in wrought iron designs, and his shop in the rear of his home is completely equipped with hundreds of tools to make the intricate objects. His handiwork is admired by all those who have had the opportunity of seeing the different things that he has made. Many complicated pieces adorn the walls of his home in the forms of brackets, hand lamps and the like.—Watertown Standard, Sept. 12.

MAKES SIGNS.

Lon Chaney, now busy playing a crooked lawyer in "Quincy Adams Sawyer," makes signs, but he's not a sign-painter. In fact, Lon, the man with the 1,000 more-or-less faces, attributes a major portion of his screen success to the fact that he was forced to learn the deaf and dumb sign language when a boy. Chaney's father and mother were both deaf and dumb, and Lon learned the sign language before he learned to talk. It was only natural that Lon should be able to express his thoughts unusually well by a few notions of his fingers or, just as often, by means of a single gesture of facial expression.

That's why he's such a wonderful screen character actor.

Miss Margaret Reeves, of Pittsburg, Pa., was married to Mr. Joe B. Lockwood, of Jefferson City, Mo., on September 5th.

Gallaudet College.

The Sun shines bright on Kendall Green,
'Tis Autumn and the students are gay.
The football hero wears a crown,
While rah, rah's make music all day.

(With apologies to Foster.)

Registration day, September 20th, saw all enrollment records broken with the number running close to a century and a half mark, with more coming in at all hours.

Football is under full sway. Practice started the 21st, with Coaches Hughes and Mengert in charge.

Capt. Louis C. LaFontaine, '23, of Ohio, heads the squad of thirty odd men in daily practice. We are all looking forward to an excellent showing.

The rooters were overjoyed to see Edwin Benedict, that big Californian reappear on the Green. "Big Ed" says the call of the Campus was too strong, and a year is all he could stay away.

The absence of several of last year's regulars is easily offset by the appearance of a goodly number of Preps, who carry plenty of beef. If they show the proper knowledge of the game the rest ought to be easy.

Lahn, a very dependable man, has not reported as yet. Paternal objections are withholding the sterling player.

Among those who have reappeared after an absence of a year or more are Miss Edwards, of South Carolina, and Miss Stilwell, of Pennsylvania, who have been unavoidably detained for a year or so. Both seemed much tickled to be strolling on the campus, also Miss Harmon ex-'22, of Pennsylvania.

Miss Charlotte E. Weiss, dean of women at Fowler Hall for a half dozen years or so, is among those missing. Miss Weiss is now in Wyoming, working as State textile agent. That winsome dean is sorely missed.

Miss Grace D. Coleman is now dean and the appointment is exceedingly popular.

The Y. M. C. A. gave a "Get Acquainted" affair in the chapel Saturday evening, the 23d, from 8 to 10 o'clock, and blown together by the four winds. "Canuck" met Texan, Californian met New Yorker, and flapper met hill-billy, and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

Mr. J. Y. Johnson, who has been in charge of the printing department for the last two years, is also missing. We haven't as yet met the new gentleman in charge.

There are five young people in the normal school, composed of three pleasant young ladies and two agreeable young men.

Our beloved Dr. Edward Allen Fay has made his appearance on the Green after a long absence. He was in his old place at chapel Sunday and it sort of seems like old times to have him again.

Dr. Fay will not hold classes this year.

Prof. Day lectured on Sunday evening, having as his subject "Opportunity." It is hard to say whether the students or the officers enjoyed it most.

Friday evening "Mistah" Craig collected his annual baggage fees, much to the amusement of us all.

Ed. Harmon, '21, is a frequent visitor. Mr. Harmon is connected with the Post Office Department and seems happy and prosperous.

The following list of young men and women compose this year Preparatory Class.

CHICAGO.

A few short months ago they stole,
They drained the deadly moonshine bowl,
And steeped themselves in crime;
But now they rot 'hind prison bars,
And curse their most unlucky stars—
Two doomed men, "doing time."
They loit and languish, in for life,
Because they robbed a deaf man's wife.

Sentenced to prison for life!

Charles Schader, 19, and Frank Lee, 16, colored, on trial for the murder of policeman Busse last January, changed their plea to guilty when the evidence against them was presented September 13th, and hanging seemed certain. By this move they avoided the gallows, but were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Out of several murders and some 150 other crimes, the one which resulted in their capture was the robbery of the Harry Leiter home last February. The Leiters were the ones who identified the two just as the detective bureau was about to release them, then merely detained for questioning. From then on discoveries were rapid. Schader murdered—among many—his own father and sister. Kit Leiter's life was probably spared because the moonshine-filled fool figured the deaf too stupid to tattle or identify. Others meeting them during their forays generally fared less fortunately. Police and press declared this youthful duo—a white and a negro, both kids—one of the most dangerous gangs in Chicago's history.

Sentenced on the 13th, and next, day the Leiters arrived home after several weeks' vacation in Philadelphia.

It is reported Frand Pleasant was in a serious wreck returning to his post at the Wisconsin State School for Deaf, September 2d, after a pleasant summer here.

Not far from Delavan the sign "Detour" compelled Pleasant to take a bad road with his Essex coach. He reached a narrow bridge and started across. While on it a big car came from the opposite direction and instead of halting well back to allow Pleasant to make the up grade and reach wide road, came down at good speed. Deep shifting sand resulted in the big, heavy car skidding and crashing into Pleasant's little coach, which caromed towards the ravine and came down on a concrete bridge pillar, thus averting a fatal fall over the bridge. Mrs. Pleasant was thrown out and sustained a gashing forehead requiring several stitches.

It is further rumored that John Fraser and family were in a bad auto smash on the 9th, when a car without headlights drove into them. Fraser received cuts about the face requiring twenty-one stitches. He was voted a life membership in the Pas-a-Pas Club last June, as the only man having a continuous membership since the founding 40 years ago.

Col. Oscar C. Smith, wounded veteran of the Argonne, and new superintendent of our State School, gave Chicago silents their first sight of him in an address at the Labor Day picnic. Compact, keen-eyed, with military bearing—the habitual "snap into it" air of veteran infantry officers being counterpoised with the instant cordiality of the politician—he was given a rousing vote of confidence on conclusion of his twenty-five minute address by the several hundred silents, school children, and parents gathered in the dance pavilion.

The boiled-down, salient points of his speech follow: "Ours is a school—a s-c-h-o-o-l, not a poor-house, nor an asylum, nor an eleemosynary institution. Tell that to your representatives. Tell them your wants. If you don't, they'll never know. I am asking $368,000 of the next legislature for new buildings. Our new gymnasium must equal the best. We have an athletic coach excelled by no school in the country.

"You deaf, and you parents, do not show enough interest in the school—your school. How many of you have visited it in the last few years? How many of you have ever seen it since you graduated? Since you parents began sending children there? How many of you have personally spoken to your representatives and State senator about it?

"You wouldn't leave your horses and cows and farmlands, nor your wives and jewelry and other possessions in the hands of other people, and never personally visit the custodians, and never speak a word in their behalf to those legislators on whose welfare they depend. Yet that is just what you do with your children.

"Aged and superannuated public school teachers—too old to give further useful service in public schools—have been shoved into our school in the past as a sort of haven in their declining years. Not good enough to teach normal children, yet deemed good enough to teach you and your children—a highly specialized branch of teaching—simply because you allowed it.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." The future of the deaf depends upon the deaf themselves. Jacksonville used to rank first among schools for the deaf. Today our noble State—the leader in so many lines—ranks way, way down in the list. Why? Because of the apathy of the deaf—OF YOU!

"Fight for your own rights. I am fighting for you, but without your backing and support equitable results are hopeless."

August J. Rodenberger of East St. Louis, Ill., president of our State association for the Deaf, followed Col. Smith with an excellent address himself, salient points following:

"This association accords Col. Smith the fullest co-operation and support in his laudable ambition to restore Illinois to the forefront in educational lines as affecting the deaf—a leadership we lost these many years ago. He is adding eight new departments to the list of trades taught this fall. Teachers have been in the habit of concentrating on a few bright pupils, which they use to 'make a showing' before visitors, and allow the rank and file to practically shift for themselves—going out into the world to make a livelihood half-baked cubs. This will stop!

"Our association has some $26,000 in the treasury, and there is considerable criticism of the fact we have no home to show for all our years of work. Bankers and realty experts alike advise waiting a few years further for the expected drop in realty, whereon we can secure an excellent property by a down payment, paying the rest in installments. I know many, many wealthy folks will be glad to extend financial aid when we have tangible property, a home in actual operation, where now they look askance at us as 'visionary impracticalists.'

"We will lobby vigorously for passage of these five bills in the next legislature:

(a) Col. Smith's appropriation for new buildings.

(b) Transferring the school from the Department of Public Welfare to the Department of Education where its properly belongs.

(c) Create a Bureau of Deaf in the Department of Labor, similar to Minnesota.

(d) Change the liability law so deaf workmen will no longer be debarred from certain lines of employment.

"As a committee to see and interest Chicago legislators in these bills I have appointed A. L. Roberts, Wm. LaMotte, Geo. Brashar, W. Barrow and C. C. Codman.

"I want every chapter and every member to push the endowment fund—a fund vitally necessary to get measures through the legislature, etc. Life memberships incur association at $10 each all revert to this fund.

"The next convention will be held in Rock Island, 1924."

A dozen friends helped celebrate the birthday of Mrs. George Dougherty September 19th, a party being given at the Dougherty mansion. Miss Julia, a teacher of the deaf, was home at her mother's birthday for the first time in eight years—she does not leave until October 3d, due to delay in erecting the new laundry at the Missouri School.

Some two dozen assorted Gallaudet College students departed on Pennsylvania trains on the 19th, including six from Washington State. A little school with an average attendance of 150 has six representatives in college, while a great State like Illinois has but one, Ladislav Cherry, a senior.

(With Coach Burns and Col. Smith behind the college movement, Illinois should shortly pick up in college representation.) In contrast to last June when a dozen co-eds, en route home, had to loiter in the station all day because the Alumni branch had no one to meet and steer them around, there were several friends on hands. Aside from Jacob Cohen, none were ex-collegians though. Parties took in the Board of Trade, stock yards, etc.

Miss Anna McNeill, of Nebraska, went back to Gallaudet after a pleasant summer, employed in the loop. She was dressed "fit to kill," and will serve as a capital advertisement of the "Vacationize in Chicago for wealth, health and happiness" campaign.

Among the Westerners was Benedict, of California, returning after a year on his ranch. Benedict was the lad who last winter defeated Dan McLeod on the wrestling mat—as detailed in this column. (McLeod was the first man ever to wrestle with youthful Frank Gotch, you remember.) If Benedict can keep that pleasant little episode from the capital newspapers and away from the eyes of the A. U. meddlers, he will serve as the nucleus of a crack wrestling team. Time was when Gallaudet wrestlers were contenders in strong competition, but of late years Gallaudet teams have been a negative quality.

The train of the Washington State lads was eleven hours late.

Miss Charlotte Watts, '19, talented and beautiful, who for the past year resisted the coaxing of every eligible bachelor in Chicago and the machinations of designing mammas, has finally succumbed to a rank outsider in the betting. Her engagement is announced to Armand Ronstadt, son of a wealthy business man of Tucson, Arizona. Armand (three years at the University of Arizona) is a pleasant, polished, splendid young fellow, and holds a good situation with his father's firm. The marriage is scheduled for spring, and they will reside in Arizona.

Prince Charming Armand won his Sleeping Beauty within four weeks after hitting town on a visit and beholding the lovely vision.

Utica, N. Y., division of the frats presented bridegroom Charlie Kemp with a handsome pair of gold cuff links in a plush box, the links being engraved "Utica No. 45." Kemp was secretary of the division, and represented it as Grand Delegate at the Philadelphia Convention.

Kemp—who was later secretary of Akron Division—now seems slated for secretary of Chicago No. 1, a post made vacant by the removal of Glenn Smith from the city.

The Susan Wesley Circle held their monthly meeting September 13th, at the flat of Mrs. E. Hunter, luncheon being served to 20. Miss Constance Hasenstab interpreted for the principal speaker—a Miss Florence von Waldheim, of Sweden, formerly teacher of French at the Illinois Women's College, Jacksonville—who gave a "Legend of Christ" and spoke of her War Relief work in Switzerland.

The Mesdames Barrow, Brimble, Craig, Kemp, O'Neil and Miss Tansar arranged a reception at the Sac on the 14th, in honor of the newly-wedded Woodruffs.

Mr. H. Berwin, of St. Louis, an old school chum of Mrs. Meagher, was feted while here at a luncheon attended only by her old schoolmates.

About a hundred silents left from the Union Station on the 18th, for the State school at Jacksonville. As usual a goodly crowd of friends, relatives, and common rubbernecks gathered to bid them Godspeed.

The Thomas Hagerty, of Delavan, Wis., spent several days in the city renewing old friendships. Tom, a football star at Gallaudet back in '89, is still a teacher in the State school. Grandma Minnie Sullivan is preparing to for a visit in California.

Mrs. Ruby Krug and Mrs. Benulah Wilson were week-end guests of Mrs. William F. Jones.

Dates ahead. October 7—Whist at All Angels. 21—I. A. D. at Pas. 28—Sac barn dance. 29—Hallowe'en at Pas.

FANWOOD.

Emil Mulfeldt, a graduate Fanwood last June, visited here Thursday, September 21st. He has a good job at printing and likes it very much.

The Jewish holiday was celebrated on September 22d to 24th. Mr. Isaac B. Garner, our principal, kindly allowed us to go home on Friday afternoon instead of Saturday morning.

On Saturday, September 23d; at 3 P.M., the pupils expected to see a baseball game between the New York Edison Co. and Fanwood, but were disappointed, as the game was called off.

Mr. Guy L. Bonham, of Hartford, Ct., came here September 23d. He had never seen the Fanwood Institution, but was greatly pleased at its big buildings and beautiful site on the banks of the Hudson River.

On the 15th of September there was a meeting of the Fanwood Athletic Association in the boys' study room for the new term of 1922-23. The officials, who were appointed in June last, appeared on the platform to make addresses. The list of the officials were: Cadet First Sergeant Lester Cahill, President; Cadet Corporal Ben Szafrank, Vice-President; Cadet Sergeant and Band Leader Richard Pokorny, Secretary; and Cadet Captain Charles Klein, Treasurer. Cadet Sergeant Raymond McCarthy, Chairman of the F. A. A.; Cadet Lieutenant Mazzola, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Cadets Rudolph Behrens and Albert Sumner are members.

The Board of Directors of the F. A. A. is arranging the competitive games for the members in the early part of November.

Some of the members of the Margat Athletic Association are transferred to the Fanwood Athletic Association. Their names will be published next week.

The kindergarten classes certainly are glad to have the comfortable new seats which the Institution bought for the little pupils.

On account of the railroad strike Miss Elizabeth Bost, a teacher, arrived at this Institution from Arkansas late on Friday, September 22d. The school opened on September 13th. We were glad that she got here safely.

The Protean Society room has been beautifully decorated by Cadet Captain Charles Klein, Cadet Captain Robert Fitting, Cadet Lieutenant Joseph Mazzola, and Cadet First Sergeant Lester Cahill.

Mr. John Spellman, who graduated last year, invited his friend, Miss Florence Carroll, of Columbia University, to see his old friends in the Protean Society room on the 24th of September.

A larger number of pupils than usual were admitted at the opening of school this fall, and all are intelligent looking children.

Several of the 1922 graduates have not yet called for their class rings. The rings are being held in the office and will be given to them upon request.

Dr. A. C. Hill of the Department of Education looked in on us for a short time on Monday afternoon.

Miss Palmer's cousin, Mr. Leonard S.vey, who was from the Clark School for the Deaf, Northampton, Mass., came to visit the schoolrooms with her on the 26th of September. Leonard will travel around New York City for a couple of days before going to his home in Massachusetts.

Cadet Charles Knoblock had not seen his father and brother for four years, until they came from St. Louis to New York last week.

Eleven pupils of the 4th, 5th and 6th Grades have been assigned to the classes in Printing.

ROBERT AND LESTER.

OHIO.

September 13, 1922.—The Board of Managers of the Ohio Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf held its annual meeting for the reading of reports of its officers, on the evening of August 31st, in the Library of the school.

There were present these members: Dr. Patterson, R. P. MacGregor, Revs. C. W. Charles and Geo. F. Flick, Wm. H. Zorn, Louis J. Buchele, A. W. Ohlemacher, J. B. Showalter, Alfred Monnin, P. S. Stevenson, August Beckert, Collins S. Sawhill, A. B. Greener, and Superintendent of the Home W. C. Chapman. After reading and approval of the minutes of the last meeting, Mr. MacGregor read the 25th annual report of the Board to the President of the Association.

In last year's report progress of the men's new building was referred to, and now the Board is happy to report that the structure is completed, and when members go up to see it will find it finely furnished from garret to basement with every modern convenience. The latter is not due to the board, but the credit belongs to the various societies in Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Piqua, Wapakoneta, Springfield, Dayton, the Ohio divisions of the N. F. S. D., and the following individual friends: Mrs. A. H. Schory, Mr. Wm. Grigsby, Mr. Wm. A. Carlisle, Mr. Carl Williams and Mr. Joseph Goldman. Before the drive was closed, the grand total of $38,367.75 had been collected, and too much praise cannot be given members of the association who long and earnestly worked to bring about this result.

Of the amount collected $33,049.11 has been expended to date, the balance $5,318.64 will be set aside for future upkeep of the building. The amount above expended does not include what was paid for the furnishings, which alone cost over $2,000.

"The Association, Madame," the secretary says, "over which you have the honor to preside, certainly has reason to congratulate itself upon its past achievements, but as the poor eye have always with you," much remains to be done, so, taking courage from the past, let us press on to the work still before us.

Thanks are extended to the Superintendent and Matron, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chapman, for their sympathetic, careful and economic management of the Home, and to the various Societies and persons for favors rendered and to the Association for its cordial co-operation in the work entrusted to the Board.

Superintendent Chapman in his report records one death during the year, Mrs. Nellie Perego, while on a visit to her foster mother in Ross County. One man ran away and was not returned, two were sent back to the Counties from which they came, because of physical conditions, three were admitted, and the present attendance is 34.

A good crop of hay was out from 33 acres, 20 acres were put out in corn, which promises well, 350 quarts strawberries were picked, and the garden has supplied abundantly in all lines of vegetables, and the whole amount received from the sales of farm products during the year was $1175.33. The amount consumed at the Home is not included. A cistern 12x18x11 feet was built for the new building, the lawn graded and walks and a driveway made through it of crushed stone.

The making of concrete walks around the new building, and connecting the woman department has been delayed because of the railroad strike.

The future needs at the Home are a new planter, manure spreader, new set of team work harness, a new hog-house, the barn on the 70-acre farm needs raising, new roof and siding, and a hand chemical fire extinguisher he purchased the superintendent recommends as a protection against fires.

He wishes to thank the following: Mrs. Minnie B. Schory, for the furnishings in Wornstaff Hall, for the rest room and sleeping room; Mr. Joseph R. Goldman, of Middletown, for the hospital room; the Columbus Advance Society for the caretakers and the following room each. The Ohio Division of the N. F. S. D., Anderson Club of Cincinnati, Piqua Advance Society, Toledo Ladies' Aid Society, Springfield Ladies' Society, Dayton Ladies' Aid Society, Eastern Ohio Advance Society, Bellair, Ohio; W. A. Carlisle, of Columbus, O.; Carl R. Williams, of Columbus, O.; Wm. H. Grigsby, of Columbus, O.; The Ladies' Aid Society of Columbus, for furnishing the laundry room in basement with two electric washers and a 46 inch electric mangle; the deaf of Akron for porch furniture and swing; the deaf of Canton for fine hall clock. Dr. Timberman, for professional services in removing eye of Mrs. Perego, and straightening eye of Miss Heffner; to St. Francis Hospital, caring for patients while under treatment; to John W. Bostwick for furnishing stone tablet and cutting the name "Wornstaff Hall, erected A. D. 1921" in it.

To societies and individuals, who remembered the residents at Christmas time, to those making gifts and donations to the Home during the past year, we are most grateful; the deaf of the Alumni Association and their friends for their contributions for the erection and furnishing our men's building, which is now complete, making a home far beyond our fondest expectations.

We wish to thank those who held religious services each Sunday, there being services held each Sunday throughout the year.

The Board of Managers and Officers are thanked for support given the Superintendent and Matron in the discharge of their duties.

By the treasurer's report the general receipts for the past year were as follows:

Balance, Sept. 1, 1921.....$39,020 25
For Men's Building Fund.....2,308 58
From earnings at the Home.....1,175 33
From Counties and Guardians.....4,504 50
Dividends and Interest.....1,162 73
For Anderson Club Fund.....98 51
For John P. Riley's Fund.....941 55
Miss Klueck, for Moving Pictures Machine.....100 00
For Reserve Fund.....1,800 00
Akron Advance Society for Forth Furniture.....100 00
Cleveland Deaf for Hot Water Heating Fund.....12 05
Total.....$44,347 51

From the above there was expended during the year.

For Current Expenses.....$6,844 34
On Building.....20,654 12
Pd Anderson Club.....216 00
Dunham Room.....3 00
Total.....$27,727 36

Thus leaving a balance in the treasury of $16,620.16 at the end of the year, August 31, 1922.

Report of the Home Drive Committee was read by Mr. Zorn.

The Committee takes pleasure in acknowledging valuable aid and advice from Mr. Louis J. Buchele, Mr. Roy Conkling, Mr. J. A. Horn, Mr. Ernest Zell, Mr. Samuel W. Corbett and others, and extends its thanks to them, and wishes also to thank Mr. Buchele for donating beautifully designed Roll of Honor cards of his own work. A list of the districts captains quotas for each, cash sent in and standing is given. Most of them went over the 100 per cent, Cincinnati leading with 555 per cent, and Zanesville second, with 386 per cent.

The Committee was composed of J. W. Jones, Chairman; A. W. Ohlemacher, A. J. Beckert, Wm. H. Zorn, Director.

A report submitted by the architect of the Men's building, Mr. Marion Carter. Among other things, he suggested that if the old building back of the Men's he retained it be put in a more presentable condition. Repairing the cornice windows, doorway, and new paint for the wood work, etc. He also suggested when the wood on the women's building is repainted it be in white. The original parts of these two buildings are both of very good Colonial design, as the new one is, and with attention given to the upkeep of the buildings, the institution would present a fine appearance to passersby. The reports were all approved.

A number of views of the buildings and grounds of the Home were passed around. They are to be used in the next report.

The term of these members: Messrs. Patterson, MacGregor, Corbett, Rev. Geo. Flick, A. W. Ohlemacher and Rev. Utten Read, were on motion of Mr. Greener re-elected for a term of nine years, except Rev. Utten Read, who has left the State. In his place Mrs. Ella A. Zell was unanimously chosen. This is the first instance a woman has been placed. It was a gracious act, for Mrs. Zell has always evinced great interest in the Home and has done much as a member of the Ladies' Aid Society in behalf of the charity.

Mr. Zorn was chosen vice-president and Executive Committee member with Messrs. Beckert, Charles and Ohlemacher. Messrs. Beckert and Ohlemacher compose the Auditing Committee.

Miss Margaret Hanberg, a teacher at the Arkansas Institution at Little Rock, spent the summer with relatives in Norway. She sails for New York on the Bergensfjord of the Norwegian American Line, and expects to reach this city on the 1st or 2d of October.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

Samuel Frankenstein reached another milestone in the journey of life on Sunday, September 24th, and as is his annual custom, had a corte of his friends join him in celebrating it.

Every year since 1911, he has given a dinner to a select company of his old-time friends. In the years that have passed, these dinners were held at different places. In the order of their occurrence, they were held at "The Hayloft" of West End Restaurant in 1911 and 1912, at Healy's in 1913 and 1914, The Hofbrau in 1915, Historic Claremont in 1916, Cafe des Beaux Arts in 1917, Mrs. Frankenstein's Apartments, in 1918, 1920 and 1921, and at Mr. Simonson's Apartments (entered Dahlquist) in 1919.

This year there was a variation from the evening dinners and the accompanying tuxedo-dressed guests. It was a "Shore Dinner" at Ward's Rest Inn, at Centerport, Long Island—forty-two miles away. So to reach it, Mr. Frankenstein hired a sightseeing automobile, with a capacity of about forty persons. The rendezvous was at 110th Street and Broadway, and the time 9.30 A. M. It was a wonderful ride on an ideal, sunshiny day. The course was down 110th Street to Fifth Avenue to 60th Street and over the Queensborough Bridge. Then through Jamaica, Queens, Hicksville, Westbury, Cold Spring Harbor, Huntington and Centerport. The scenery along the way was entrancing to the eye, and the time seemed short when the destination was reached at 12.30.

The menu, which was especially fine from an epicurean point of view, was as follows:—

Clam Chowder
Steamed Clams      Clam Broth
Broiled Fish      Cold Lobster Sauce
Broiled Chicken with vegetables
Ice Cream      Dem Tasse
Budweiser ad libitum. Havana Cigars

All were surprised when about to begin dinner by Mrs. Simonson, Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Loew, and Mrs. M. W. Loew walking in and greeting them. They had been to Port Washington in Mrs. Simonson's car and made the twenty miles to Centerport afterwards. This party had dinner by themselves.

After dinner, in groups, the guests made pedestrian tours in the vicinity, which is very beautiful with its little lake of placid water, a long bridge that spans it, and a vista of trees looking glorious in their autumnal foliage.

The return was begun at four o'clock and New York was reached at seven.

Everybody had a splendid time and each and all expressed their pleasure to Mr. Frankenstein, wishing him continued health, wealth and happiness, and many more birthdays.

Those who made the trip and enjoyed the "shore dinner" were: Max Levy, Albert V. Ballin, Felix A. Simonson, Emanuel Souweine, Francis W. Nubser, Arthur C. Bachrach, Marcus L. Kenner, M. W. Loew, Emil Basse, Henry C. Kohlman, Edgar Bloom, James B. Gass, Merton Moses, Anthony Capelli, Henry Peters, Frank Brown, Charles C. McManis, Edwin A. Hodgson—and, of course, the host, Samuel Frankenstein.

That "Better Times," Charles Dillingham's New York Hippodrome super-spectacle might be considered a post-graduate school of the dance has been revealed from a survey of the personnel cards of the ballet ensemble of the big playhouse, consisting of more than 300 girls. The cards among other points of information, require each dancer to give her training and stage experience, and more than 85 percent of all cards reveal that the girls to whom they have reference recently have taken training under prominent New York teachers of dancing.

The majority of the Hippodrome dancers are drawn to the big playhouse not only because of the fact that the Hippodrome has an average season in excess of thirty-five weeks, but because of the opportunities for achieving actual stage experience in a range of dancing which it is impossible to attain in a musical comedy or a revue of ordinary proportions. Hippodrome ensemble dancers, for instance, are doing classic dancing in three scenes, the Max Teuber episode "The Awakening of Spring" which opens the performance, and in the fan ballet and in the water spectacles. Folk dances of Turkish, Spanish, Arabian, Russian and Hungarian origin, occur in the fan ballet, while in the "Peach Blossom," "Land of Mystery" and fan scenes occur foxtrots and one-step in the modern style. Scattered through the production are countless bits of ice dancing, eccentric dancing and interpretative dancing in all of which these ballet members take part.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frey have the pleasure of announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Bessie, to Mr. Michael D. Ciavolino, on September 23d. It was a surprise on the eve of Bessie's birthday, and a very simple but beautiful party was also given, at which both their families and closet friends were present, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frey, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ciavolino, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Lowe, Misses Louise and Marie Ciavolino, Vera Hoffman, Rose Wax, Clara Sylvester, Anna Jacobs, Sarah Kremen, and Messrs. Leopold Frey, Leon Ciavolino, Charles Sussman, Max Hoffman, Morris Kremen, and Julius Seandel.

Mrs. C. Thompson has just returned to New York after spending two weeks with Miss Rachel Gantz and her sister in Beachwood, New Jersey, where they have a lovely bungalow surrounded by pines. Beachwood is noted for its remarkable rapid growth. Since it was first started by the New York Tribune about six years ago and now boasts of a very fine clubhouse, a fine bathing beach and many other improvements, and bids fair to be another Lakewood, which is only ten miles away, in a few years.

Mr. Guy L. Bonham, of Hartford, Ct., was in New York for several days during the past week. Mr. Bonham is a clever business man, and for six years was Superintendent of the Garvan Company, a contracting company of Hartford. He is an inventor and holds letters patent for half a dozen inventions of commercial value. He is a graduate of the Mt. Airy School, and Dr. Croton should feel proud over his exceptional ability.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan G. Stern, of Philadelphia, and son, will be in New York City for a fortnight or so, beginning next Friday. They will be glad to have their friends come. Her parents' address is 805 St. Nicholas Avenue.

Mrs. Julius A. Rathheim and daughter Doris will return to their new home in Rockville Centre, L. I., the first week of October, after spending the summer in Greenwich, N. Y., with her folks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Makowski announce the engagement of her daughter, Wanda to Mr. Wm. J. Burke.

Rev John H. Kent has gone to North Craftsbury, Vt., for a rest of two weeks. He will visit Mrs. Chamberlain.

Mr. Lowenberg, of Boston, is in New York for a short holiday.

PORTLAND, OREGON.

The S. F. L. Club picnic, scheduled to meet at Holliday Park, was at the last minute changed to Mrs. Deliglio's home. In spite of the hard rain, at least three-fourths of the members were present with their husbands and friends. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Lipde, Mrs. Hastings, Mr. Spieler, Mr. Peterson, and Mr. Reichle, and Ralph Reichle. Every one had a good time, at least no one was reported sick the next day.

The ladies of Vancouver say that Mr. Martin of that city has at last met his match. It is reported that he blushes becomingly whenever being teased about having himself once upon a time been teased by a young lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hart are proud of their little daughter Polly, born here about six weeks ago. The Harts have returned to their farm in Sherwood for the winter.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Garberson the 20th of August. Mrs. Garberson is residing with her mother, but may return to Portland before November.

Little Rosalinda Kautz has been ill for the last two weeks. The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kautz hope their little daughter will soon be well again.

The Jesse Cravens motored to Portland this week to pay for material for their new garage. Virgil Magarrell, of Tillamook, was also here. They expect to return home the latter part of this week.

Talking about motors reminds the writer of the accident that occurred last Saturday evening. While returning home from visiting friends Hendrick Leo, the brother of Mrs. Deliglio, was run into by a large Dixie Flyer auto. The Ford Sedan could not stand the shock and turned completely over. Fortunately no one was hurt, and the owner of the large car will be required to pay for the repairs of the Ford. The only sufferer is the writer's pocketbook, as she does not ride every time she is required to use the street car, which at present usually occurs half a dozen times a day.

The Labor Day Picnic of the N. F. S. D. turned out a failure. The hard rain in the morning left the park cold and damp, in spite of the warmth of the afternoon sun. At different times during the morning and afternoon over fifty of the Portland deaf wandered through Mount Tabor Park looking for their friends. Not finding any one, they went downtown or returned home. About a dozen called on the Nelsons, who live near the park.

The Lynches from Stockton, California, motored to Portland for Mr.

Lynch's vacation. After visiting several friends in and near the city they will start back home, stopping off at different places on their way back.

Dana Acuff is again living with the Reichles. It is believed he will remain in Portland and work during the winter. One temptation is a new bed and bureau that Mrs. Reichle installed in his room. Another temptation is her good cooking.

Cortland Greenwald and Guile Delliglio have signed a peace treaty. Hitherto they have been friendly enemies. Now they intend to be friendly friends.

Mrs. Schneider, of Los Angeles, is a first-class propagandist. She has poured forth the charms of this southern city so much that this writer has handed her pen to Mr. Henry Nelson and ordered him to attend to the JOURNAL's work for at least six months, and she will accompany Mrs. Schneider to Los Angeles the latter part of September. An editor of a well-known magazine has written her that a year or two experience among people will enable her to write better articles and stories. So if one must gain experience as a poor working girl, what better chance is there than a city far enough from home where it is either work or starve? Being so stout, there will be no danger of this writer starving while waiting for money to be sent her from home. And, oh boy! no snow or long rainy days to encounter when forced to get up in the cold gray dawn!

Tramp—a foot traveler, vagrant, vagabond.

Bum—an idle drunkard, vagabond, guzzler.

Hobo—professional tramp, one who steals rides on a train and begs for a living.

The writer apologizes to Mr. Mueller. It should have read "theatrical trampish clothes." No doubt a real tramp wears a neat evening suit on his trips and when he is also inclined to stay at home. Clothes do not make the gentleman. 'tis true, but a neat appearance helps a lot with friends. But, never mind, the writer is happy over a new plot idea discovered through her little tiff with Mr. Mueller. It deals with the change of a vagabond into a neat appearing young business man through a new suit. Mr. Mueller, I herein extend my heartiest thanks to you.

Several hearing friends continually ask me if I do not miss my hearing. To small extent I do, but there is a recompense that I would not trade for my hearing. This recompense is books. I can read from morning to night and anything from the Bible to a dictionary. When I become disgusted with the new books, I find delight in creating my own stories, but after they are once written I seldom re-read them. My favorite magazine is the Silent Worker, my favorite paper is the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. I am still looking for my favorite book. When someone publishes a book dealing with the deaf in fiction form, it will be my favorite novel. Except for KING SILENCE I know of no novels dealing with deaf characters. So, friends, get to work and write one that I can read and enjoy. Already I am trying, but it's more fun to read than to write.

If Mr. Mueller, of Vancouver, desires to write there is no better work to do than to write about the deaf so that the hearing people can understand us better. I, for one, am tired of telling strangers that my son can hear, talk, and act as any other little boy. I have been told that people are surprised that I can write so well and be deaf. They wouldn't say that of hearing people, and why say it of me. So far I am only an amateur and know it will take years and years at least to write MY story about the deaf for my IGNORANT friends. Some day it must be done, and it should be done soon. Then we would get a fairer chance to prove what we are able to do. I have gone with both the deaf and hearing, and I find that the deaf are normal in every way except that instead of using their ears and talking, they use their hands. In other actions and in their thoughts they are identical. The hearing people do not need more statistics of the deaf but stories showing the deaf as we really are.

Here endeth the writer's duty. Now for some hard study with the goal of her ambition still in the dim future, but with hopes of reaching it before overtaken by old age.

G. L. D.

The first oil well in this country was brought in 63 years ago by Col. Edwin L. Drake, near Titusville, Pa. It was only 69 feet deep, but it marked the beginning of an epoch, the importance of which has only begun to be realized.

The demand for oil created by the development of the internal combustion engine, has so stimulated the growth of the industry that there are today, according to estimates by the American Petroleum Institute, about 275,000 producing wells in this country.

Production has increased from the negligible quantity obtained in 1859 from Col. Drake's little well, to an output last year of 469,639,000 barrels in this country alone.

PHILADELPHIA.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1838 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Catholic Standard and Times, August 12th last, had the following summary account of a recent interesting event here among our Catholic brethren, which we have been asked to reproduce:

Reminiscent of an important section of the work taken up at the recent convention of the Catholic Educational Convention in the city, is an article in the July number of "The Catholic Deaf-Mute," published in New York City, of which James F. Donnelly is editor.

The account describes the reception tendered the visiting delegates by the St. Joseph's Catholic Deaf-Mute Mission, on June 29th, the closing date of the convention, in St. Joseph's College Auditorium, Seventeenth and Stiles Streets.

The local committee was composed of Luke V. McGuckin, who was in charge, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McGahan, Miss Katherine Gannon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tate, Miss Margaret Shea, Thomas Myers and A. Tingalino.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME ARRANGED

The occasion presented the local mission with its first opportunity to entertain so many distinguished visitors, and the instructive programme which was arranged, was as follows: The Rev. F. A. Moeller, of St. Louis, spoke on "The Catholic Deaf-Mute Conference." The Rev. M. A. Purcell, S. J., of Baltimore, Md., told of "The K. L. D. and the Catholic Deaf-Mute." The discourse of the Rev. Joseph A. Bassick, S. J., of Great Coteau, La., called attention to "Some Deaf-Mute Needs in the South," while F. Donnelly, editor of "The Catholic Deaf-Mute," made a plea for "Local Schools for the Catholic Deaf," and proposed a plan for their support. Andrew J. Sullivan, of Jackson Miss., told of "The Catholic Deaf of the South," and was followed by William E. V. Brogan, of Ardmore, who stressed "The Need of Unity."

The Rev. Daniel D. Higgins, C.S.S. R. brought the interesting programme to a close with his plea for "The Deaf."

Our informant wishes us to add that the reception was highly enjoyable to all present.

Mr. Harry G. Gunkel, President of the Cleric Literary Association, is at present suffering with nervous eye trouble which prevents from continuing at his work. He is being treated by a specialist and we hope that it will not be long before his eyes will be normal again. Owing his enforced absence, the arrangements for a celebration of the C. L. A.'s 57th anniversary, on September 21st, were not completed, and it will now be held a week later—that is, on September 28th. The proper date of the anniversary is September 23d.

Mrs. M. L. Haight is visiting at Mrs. Syle's residence in Germantown, her stay being indefinite. Mrs. Haight and Mrs. Syle spent a good part of the past Summer together at different resorts and enjoyed themselves.

The Philadelphia Local Branch, P. S. A. D., held its regular meeting on Saturday evening, September 16th. Mrs. Geo. T. Sanders presiding. After dispatching routine business, the annual election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, Elmer E. Scott; Vice President, Joseph S. Rodgers; Secretary, Mrs. A. S. McGhee, Treasurer; Harry F. Smith.

The annual Donation Day at the Bome for Aged and Infirm Deaf will occur on Thursday, October 12th. The deaf and their friends everywhere in this State, are asked to make a special effort to help the Home by contributions of money or anything that will be of use at the Home. At the recent Lancaster convention almost four hundred dollars were spontaneously contributed by the deaf and their friends. Most of the money was for the Fire Escape Fund. Much has still to be raised to repay the loan from the Building Fund, so nowhere is an opportunity for many others, who were unable to attend the convention to continue the good-will offering for the Fire Escape Fund. Local Branches, please take notice of this matter and inform the members and others of it. Money may be sent to the Society Treasurer, Mr. A. S. McGhee, 4930 North Fairhill Street, Olney, Philadelphia, Pa., but gifts of articles, provisions, etc., had better be sent direct to the Home in Doylestown. Please prepay parcels post, express or freight charges to Doylestown.

In the near future, we hope to be able to report the Lancaster convention, together with all the contributors to the Fire Escape and other funds. We can not do so now, because we have not got the data, etc., at hand.

A dinner will be served at All Souls' Parish House, from 5 to 7:30 P.M., on Thursday, October 12th. The price per plate will be fifty cents, but reservations must be made in advance. In the evening at the meeting of the Cleric Literary Association, Dr. Percival Hall, President of Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., will give a talk. Remember that these desiring to attend the dinner should engage a plate in advance.

Mrs. Hannah Welch, hearing daughter of the late Mrs. M. A. Paulin, who is mentioned in history as having started the fund for All Souls' Church for the Deaf by her "widow's mite," died on September 4th, 1922, at the age of 74 years. She was ill with liver disease and other complications for quite a while, although not bed-ridden. She was conversant with the sign language and a most regular attendant and contributor of All Souls' Church for the Deaf, although she could both hear and talk. She was buried in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, the Rev. J. O. McIlhenny officiating for the Rev. Mr. Dantzer, on September 7th.

On September 11, 1922, at All Souls' Church for the Deaf, Miss Edith May Tussey, of Camden, N. J., was married to Mr. Maurice Wilkens McCreedy, of New Brunswick, N. J. The ceremony took place at 3:00 P.M., the Rev. C. O. Dantzer officiating. The bridesmaid was Miss Marion Tussey, hearing sister of the bride, and the best man, Mr. William E. Rothe-mund. The couple spent a short honeymoon on the Valley Green farm of Mr. Sylvester C. Benedict, at Port Jervis, N. Y. They are now residing at New Brunswick. Congratulations!

Miss Edith R. Boozer, of Mt. Airy, spent the last week of July at Pittsburgh, where she visited her sister, Elizabeth, who is a trained nurse at one of the local hospitals, and also Miss Mary J. Woods, and then went to Akron, Ohio, where she spent two weeks with the Durian family and former Miss Sadie Ladd. She also spent two weeks at Kalamazoo, Mich., with Miss Susan M. Heiner, and then went to Detroit, Mich., where she stayed a few days with Mrs. Percy J. Eisenhart, (nee Miss Esther M. Wolfe.) From there she went through Buffalo to New York City, where she saw Mrs. Samuel Paul (nee Miss Esther Rappaport.) She returned to Mt. Airy after Labor Day to resume work. She had a wonderful vacation.

Mrs. John C. Robinson was given a surprise birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Reed Robertson, on Saturday evening, September 2d.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rohrer, of Lancaster, Pa., left for Ohio on September 22d, to visit the former's relatives. They expect to remain away about two weeks.

Mrs. Benjamin Musser, of Lancaster, Pa., who has been quite seriously ill for some time, has gone to her daughter's home in Virginia to recuperate.

Mr. Harry E. Stevens visited New York City on Sunday, September 17th. He saw quite a few signs, "Walk your horse." They are certainly considerate to the "ole hosses" in the metropolis. That's right, Bros. Hodgson, Kent, Naboor, et al.

Charles A. Smith, of Sheuandah, Pa., was a visitor at All Souls' Parish House on the 15th of September.

Mr. Andrew J. Sullivan, of Jackson, Miss., who has been spending some time hereabouts, returned West on September 15th, to resume teaching at the School for the Deaf. Being a native of Philadelphia, Mr. Sullivan has many friends here who are always glad to have him among them.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Matthews enjoyed a trip to Gettysburg on September 11th.

Commencing on October 1st, the afternoon (3 P.M.) service at All Souls' Church for the Deaf will be resumed. There will be the usual Communion Service in the morning of the first Sunday of the month. This means two services for next Sunday.

To Mrs. Emanuel Souweine.

In Memoriam.

Thou fell asleep, oh friend of mine,—
Softly pealed the evening chime,—
For thy work was o'er!
Sweet thoughts shall cling around thy life,
Oh! patient soul, and loyal wife,
Until Time is no more!

Ah! Kindly heart, which strove each day
To brighten others on their way,
And render counsel wise;
Oh! shining light of fair womanhood,
Of duty done, of all that's good
In our Father's eyes!

No more we'll greet thy beaming smile!
For we have lost thee for awhile—
God has called thee high!
Angel hands shall unstop thine ears,
Angel voices shall quell thy fears,
With thy loved ones nigh!

NELLIE R. L. RUFF.

The oil refining industry always accumulates a stock of gasoline in the winter and early spring in order to take care of the heavy summer demand. During the first five months of this year, the unsold accumulation amounted to 11.8 per cent of the total production for that period.

ALTOONA, PA.

Mrs. J. H. Buterbaugh and her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Fillyaw, went to Ashaway, R. I., August 21st, to attend the Seventh day Baptist General Conference for a week. On Friday afternoon, the 25th, they went in auto to the beach at Morris Point to spend an hour looking at the beautiful scenery and the ocean view, and on Monday the 28th, they went to Newport, R. I., to look at scenery and ocean view around, by auto, for an hour too; and then, saw many queer things in the rooms of the historical society. Their trip to Newport and back was made partly on a steamship, and they had the pleasure of sailing on the waters of the Atlantic Ocean along the famous New England shore. They left Ashaway the next day for this city, and then on Thursday, the 31st, went to Salemville, Pa., to attend the meeting of an association there which came to a close on Sunday night. On September 4th, they came back to their home in this city, much pleased with their two trips, but willing to take a good rest after so much riding around.

George Gardner, of Tyrone, a great uncle of George Curtin, aged 75, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Curtin, at Klesins Building not long ago.

The silk workers of the Juniata and Altoona silk mills were invited to have a picnic, which was held at Rhodenhorn Park at Loydsville, August 15th. Among the workers who attended the picnic were three deaf-mutes, Miss Grace Buterbaugh employed at the Altoona silk mill, and Miss Nora Scannell and Mrs. Joseph Gauntner (nee Mary Treese) employed at the Juniata silk mill. They returned home, reporting a splendid time.

Miss Grace Buterbaugh's mother, sister and brother, of Marion Center, came here August 18th to see her and stayed with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buterbaugh, 319 Beech Avenue, a couple of days. They left Grace's sister to stay with them for about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Saylor and children, and Mr. and Mrs. John McIntyre, attended the deaf-mutes' picnic at Allentown, not long ago. At a late hour they returned home reporting a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Saylor and child, Mr. and Mrs. John McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buterbaugh and Mrs. A. Richman attended the deaf-mutes' picnic at Punxsutawney, August 20th. At a late hour they came back to their home, reporting a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Saylor, Mrs. A. Richman and Gilbert Singerman attended the P. S. A. D. Convention, which was held at Lancaster September 1-2. When they returned home, they reported that they had a splendid time.

A number of friends were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Chatham, at their home, 5507 Fourth Avenue, in Eldorado, in honor of their daughter Iva, who returns to the School for the Deaf at Mt. Airy. She received nice gifts. Delicious refreshments were served and at a late home they returned home reporting a good time.

Abe Richman made a long pleasant trip to Scranton and Wilkes Barre not long ago to visit interesting places, and then to Philadelphia and remained a couple of days to visit his friends, School for the Deaf at Mt. Airy and the Home at Doylestown. He left for Allentown to attend the Deaf Mutes' picnic, from whence he returned home.

Mrs. Joseph Gauntner quit work at the Juniata silk mill recently to live at Patton, where her husband is employed at the brick yard.

Some of the deaf mutes from Johnstown, Greensburg, Cresson, Gallitzin and this city, attended the picnic at the Lakemont Park in this city on Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buterbaugh and their nieces, Grace and Gayle Buterbaugh, went to Corn, near Indiana, recently, to see their sister and brother and children, and to attend the Indiana Fair. Mr. Frank Wilson, of Ford City, accompanied them to this city from the Fair. He spent a few days with them at 319 Beech Avenue.

Mrs. J. H. Buterbaugh went to Purchase Line, September 9th, to bring her little nephew, Clair Buterbaugh, and then her husband took Clair to School for the Deaf at Mt. Airy.

Miss Margaret Walker, of Johnstown, spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brookbank in Juniata.

Mr. Paul Neff, of Punxsutawney, came here on business recently and returned home the next day.

Charles McArthur, of Juniata, has secured employment with a bricklayer recently, thus keeping him working all winter.

Dan Capid has whispered around that Charles McArthur, of Juniata, and Miss Margaret Walker, of Johnstown, are nearing the altar of matrimony.

Mrs. Ernest Brookbank, of Juniata, has been ill with rheumatism for several weeks. Her health is now improving a little.

A number of the deaf will go to Niagara Falls on an excursion September 24th.

PITTSBURGH.

Active preparations for the Bazaar to be held here November 10th and 11th, 1922, under the auspices of the Knights and Ladies of De l'Epee, are now proceeding. The aim is to make it the "best ever," also to let it be known that it is bound to be worth patronizing by the hearing folk as well as by the deaf. The object is to raise funds for the National Convention to be held here in the summer of 1923.

Mrs. Peter Gillooly is chairman of the committee in charge of the Bazaar and will select the other members to make all arrangements. Mr. Vincent Dunn is the chairman of the local committee of arrangements for the future convention.

The Pittsburgh Social League has secured new quarters (three rooms), at Bedford Avenue and Washington Street, at reasonable terms and have taken possession. The League had been homeless for a short time, owing to high rentage. The rooms they have now secured are commodious and well suited to their uses.

The Pittsburgh Division, No. 36, N. F. S. D., had rousing meeting September 9th, at their hall in the McGeah Building, Bedford Avenue. There was a large attendance. After business affairs had been disposed of, Mr. Greco passed the cigars as a glad offering for his recent marriage. The boys certainly gave him the glad hand.

Miss Alice Teegarden and Miss Sara Scofield, who spent the summer with the former's parents, returned to New York by auto, via the National Highway as far as Frederick, Maryland, where they were guests of Supt. and Mrs. Bjorlee for a day. Mr. and Mrs. Teegarden accompanied them as far as Uniontown, and that part of the trip at least was delightful.

The Pittsburgh Branch of the P. S. A. D. held a postponed meeting September 16th. It was announced by the ways and means committee that Judge Snee and Mr. Phillips of the Brashear Foundation would address the meeting and a good sized audience was present.

At the last moment Judge Snee telephoned that he was indisposed and regretted his inability to keep the engagement. This was a disappointment, though the Judge promised to come some future time.

Mr. Teegarden was called on to tell what was done at the Lancaster meeting. He told about the generous support that was given at the convention for the Home at Doylestown. Then Mr. Holliday, who had been elected President of the P. S. A. D. at Lancaster, took his turn on the rostrum and explained some more.

Mrs. Phillips was then invited to address the meeting. She gave a very interesting talk about the Brashear Settlement work and complimented the deaf in their support of a Home for the Aged and Infirm. She proved her interest by donating $25.00 to the Home fund. The ice-cream and cake served at this meeting were also from her generous hand. She hoped she would be of further use to the Branch in the future. Mrs. Keith interpreted her remarks, which were received with genuine pleasure by all.

At this meeting a committee to solicit donations for the Home was appointed, so look out for their appeal and be prepared to respond generously. October 14th.

Mr. Eugene Bradley and Mr. Oscar Wade, of Birmingham, Alabama, were at this meeting. They were touring the country and glad to see Pittsburgh and her people.

Mr. Edward Harman was in Philadelphia all the summer, studying the monotype machine. He left Pittsburgh for Washington, D. C., September 13th, where he obtained a position at the government printing office. We understand he does not expect to remain there permanently.

Fred Connor and his chum and teammate, Mr. Lewis LaFontaine, were visitors at the school Monday.

They left for Washington the next day, where they will soon be doing things on the Gallaudet football squad. It appears to be a strenuous life, this footballing.

Mr. Robert Rollings, now of Detroit, was able to visit his Alma Mater last week, because a department of the Ford factories, where he has worked for the past seven years, had shut down for a spell. He was glad to visit the old home again.

Marion Allen and Hugh Cosgrove were discovered at the school, grazing the veranda railing today. They are still "watchful waiting" as the printers' strike isn't settled yet. It seems a "loaf" stretched out to such big dimensions is a mighty hard job, to say the least.

Mr. F. A. Leitner and Mr. H. Bades visited Mr. Joe Atcheson at his home recently and found him in bed. His condition does not seem to improve much, but he hopes to be able to go to Florida for the winter soon. We hope the warm climate down there will be beneficial.

TENNESSEE

CONVENTION OF THE TENNESSEE ASSOCIATION.

Featuring the annual Tennessee Convention for the Deaf and Dumb, which opened today at 2 o'clock at the Tennessee Deaf and Dumb School, were addresses by Mr. Warren, of Nashville, State president; Dr. Herbert Acuff, Mr. Fred Fancher, of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, and sermons by Rev. S. M. Freeman, of Georgia, and Rev. J. W. Michaels, of Arkansas. Approximately 200 delegates attended the opening session.

This, the sixth annual convention and reunion, will continue through Sunday, and special services are arranged for the Sunday School hour at the First Presbyterian Church and sermons at the Tennessee Deaf and Dumb School.

Mayor E. W. Neal delivered this Welcome Address for the city, at this afternoon's meeting, and Mrs. H. T. Moore, also welcomed the visitors in the name of the school. A special feature of Wednesday afternoon's program was the unveiling of portraits of former superintendents T. L. Moses and J. H. Ijams.

Mr. W. O. Brannum spoke words of eulogy regarding Prof. Moses and Mr. M. R. Mann eulogized Mr. J. H. Ijams. The portraits were unveiled by Misses Lucy Wheeler and Bertha Keisling.

Delegates attending the convention went to the aviation field at the Cherokee Country Club Saturday morning. The aviators in charge entertained the visitors with a number of stunts. Members of the Knoxville Auto Club took the delegates in cars to witness the flying. From the flying field the delegates went to Chilhowee Park for a day's outing. The local committee had arranged with the park managers so that each convention visitor had free tickets to the park attractions. Games, swimming, baseball, boat riding and the attractions of the park, were enjoyed by all. The event was a picnic, all enjoying lunch and supper at the park.

Sunday morning the visitors attended the Sunday school class at the First Presbyterian Church. This church conducts a Sunday school class for the deaf and dumb throughout the year, and visitors united in this big class for the day. Following the Sunday school lesson, Rev. F. M. Freeman, of Georgia, preached.

Rev. Mr. Michaels, of Arkansas, preached the closing service in connection with the convention. Friday at the business meeting, J. B. Chandler, of Knoxville, was elected president of the Tennessee Association. Other officers chosen were: Gordon Midget, vice-president, and Jesse T. Warren, secretary-treasurer.

It has been decided to hold the reunion and convention in Knoxville. This will be in 1925, three years from now, and it is planned to have this convention in the new buildings to be erected at Island Home.

Can you imagine the merriest kind of a social function at which not a single word was spoken? Well, that was what happened at the dance given last night in the auditorium of the Business Men's Club by members of the Deaf and Dumb Convention, which is now in session in Knoxville.

There are about 185 enrolled at the convention, but nearly three hundred men and women were present at the dance. The music was furnished by the orchestra and band of the Deaf and Dumb Institute. One of the leading musicians who attracted considerable attention was a visiting cornetist from New York City. In accompanying his playing the band followed the movements of his fingers, and the results were fully as good as those generally obtained when the musicians are in possession of all their senses.

Refreshments were served the dancers at a late hour, and the party broke up with the same goodwill and merriment which had marked the entire evening.

J. B. Chandler, of Knoxville, was elected president of the Tennessee Association of the Deaf, at yesterday's business session of the sixth annual convention and reunion of the members, which is being held at the Tennessee School for the Deaf and Dumb. Gordon Midget, of Knoxville, was elected vice-president, while Jesse T. Warren, of Nashville, was elected to serve in the capacity of secretary-treasurer.

The next convention will be held three years from now at the new school, that is to be built about two miles out of Knoxville on the Galbreath farm. The convention expressed confidence in the action of the State Board in the removal of the school from its present location.

Directors were appointed for the three divisions of the State as follows: W. W. Worley, Johnson City, director for East Tennessee; Lomas Payne, Pikeville, director for Middle Tennessee; and Henry Tenton, director for West Tennessee.

The association pledged its support to the National Convention of 1923, which is to be held in Atlanta. The sum of $50 was given toward the $5,000 fund that is being raised for the entertainment of the visitors and it is planned to raise $150 additional in voluntary contributions. This convention will be the biggest gathering of the deaf that has ever been held.

Resolutions thanking Neil B. Spahr, Mrs. H. T. Moore, the newspapers, Chapin-Sacks corporation and the Knoxville Automobile Club were adopted. The following resolution expressed confidence in the action of the State Board of Administration in moving the school to Island Home:

"Resolved, That we go on record as a body expressing our confidence in the action of the State Board of Administration in the removal of the school from its present location to the old Dickinson farm, situated on the outskirts of the city, two and one-fourth miles from the Knox County Court House. We believe Tennessee deaf-mutes have a right to a plant second to none in the United States and feel confident that the Board has such an idea in mind, and will give us the best Tennessee can afford."

"Resolved, That we express our appreciation to the State Board of Administration, composed of Gov. Taylor, Hon. Lewis S. Pope and Hon. Hill McAlister, especially to the State Manager, Lewis S. Pope, for his deep interest and close attention to the welfare and progress of the deaf in general and particularly to the State school, the alma mater of all members of this association."

In the afternoon delegates enjoyed an automobile trip to Lyons' View and the Galbreath farm, where the site for the future school was viewed. The trip was made in automobiles furnished by members of the Knoxville Auto Club. The deaf-mutes were also driven to the Chapin-Sacks corporation, where they were shown through the plant and served with refreshments.

A meeting of the N. F. S. D. took place last night at the Board of Commerce. This meeting was a big event of the convention and was open to all.

The association pledges $1,000, to be raised in the next three years, to add to present fund of $1,500 to build and furnish a cottage for the use of the deaf patients from over the State who come to the city for treatment at the Knoxville County Tuberculosis sanitarium, which is soon to be built. Mrs. F. A. Roberts, daughter of Superintendent Moses, was put in special charge of the matter.

An all-day outing will be enjoyed today, when the members will journey to Chilhowee Park.—Journal-Tribune, September 9

MANUFACTURERS OF PATENT DEVICES

AT LAST WE HAVE IT.

Something to keep the children out of mischief, and to be enjoyed by grown-ups as well.

We have perfected a baseball game, a regular little beauty, all wood parts stained a rich mahogany and highly finished; all metal parts of a highly polished aluminum.

(Patent Pending.)

Manufactured by the LAUDER & SHEAN DEVICE MFG. CO., INC. VALLEY STREAM, L. I., N. Y.

From the cut you will note that an exact reproduction of a big league diamond has been laid out, with a finely finished aluminum batter standing at the home plate, ready to swing at any ball you may pitch. Your boy, brother or nephew, will want one. It will prove a boon to any one that has children. It will also enliven many an evening for grown-ups, which would otherwise appear dull. Must be seen to be appreciated.

Be the first one in your neighborhood to possess one, and see how popular you will be.

In order to better advertise this game, we will, for a short time, sell it direct to the consumer at the factory price of $3.00. Stockholders and others who have received literature covering this game please note reduction in price, of which they can avail themselves.

Don't wait. Fill out blank below and send it at once, enclosing $3.00. IMPORTANT—Be sure and write your name and address plainly.

LAUDER & SHEAN DEVICE MFG. CO., INC., Valley Stream, L. I., New York.

Please send me the advertised ball game, postpaid, for which I am enclosing $3.00 herewith.
